

ANTI-EVOLUTION LAWS DENOUNCED

Seattle, Wash., July 5.—(AP)—Opposition to the Tennessee "evolution" law and other state statutes which forbid the teaching of certain subjects in the public schools was expressed in a resolution overwhelmingly adopted here late today by the resolutions committee of the National Education association.

The resolution, which will be presented to the association's representative assembly Friday for adoption, also protested against the passage of laws directing the specific subjects shall be taught in the schools.

Both of the points in the resolution were advocated in an address yesterday by Dr. Henry Suzzallo, former president of the University of Washington.

The committee, however, put aside for a year another plank embodied in Dr. Suzzallo's address. The resolution, which was tabled, would have protested against "domination of education by politicians" through appointive boards of trustees and regents, and proposed elective boards as a remedy.

Dr. A. E. Winslow, Boston educator, who led the attack on the latter plank, declared that its adoption would be construed as "meddling in Washington state politics."

Although he termed the recent dismissal of Dr. Suzzallo by the University of Washington regents as "outrageous," Dr. Winslow expressed the belief that the proposed resolution "would be a splendid year hence, but not now."

Among the other resolutions adopted by the committee was one urging that federal aid be extended to schools in the flood-stricken districts of the Mississippi valley.

OPIUM PARADISE FOUND IN CHICAGO

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution.)
Chicago, July 5.—Tunnels that under-ran a square block of Chinatown were found today when narcotic agents raided a smoking opium den in the basement of 148 West Twenty-second street.

The tunnels formed a network under the block bounded by LaSalle street, Wentworth avenue and Twenty-first and Twenty-second streets. Major Joseph A. Manning, local chief of narcotic agents, who led the raid, said the tunnels were the most complete he had seen in 25 years of government service.

Moy Fong, who claimed to be a cousin of Willie Moy, mayor of Chinatown, was arrested by the narcotic agents as the owner of the opium den. Three complete layouts were seized. The place was filled with the finest of oriental rugs and draperies and hangings, Major Manning said.

Following the tunnels, the agents found a wine press and five barrels of Chinese wine in a drug store at 146 West Twenty-second street. This was turned over to the prohibition department.

The tunnels were from four to six feet beneath the surface of the ground and wide enough for two men to pass each other. They were about four feet high. Entrance to the opium den was obtained through a grocery store on the first floor.

Local agents following leads obtained in a recent drive against drug peddlers arrested Ben Dorfman and Louis Wallenstein in New York city. The two are alleged to have sold narcotic agents, W. H. Conklin and A. B. Bowman, drugs valued at $2,600.

Sam Lowy and John Heo were also arrested in the east by the agents on drug violation charges.

James L. Ewing, of New Orleans, Wins Annual Publishers' Tournament; 42 Prizes Awarded

Scenes at the annual tourney of the publishers at East Lake. Three convention visitors are shown at the upper left, just before the tee-off. They are, left to right: Fred C. Grumman, Mergenthaler Linotype company; B. Gottesman, Hudson Trading company, and L. E. Mansfield, International Paper company. At the upper right is seen Colonel W. H. Savory acting in his capacity as chairman of the golf committee of the association. Col. Savory is a high official of the Mergenthaler Linotype company, and Tuesday was elected an honorary life member of the Southern Newspaper Publishers association. Marcus E. Foster is shown sending one down the fairway in the picture at the lower left. Mr. Foster is publisher of the Houston (Tex.) Chronicle and a former president of the association. At the lower right is a foursome composed of, left to right: Arthur S. Thompson, of H. D. Roosen Co., New York; T. B. Beacon, of King Features; Arthur T. Robb, managing editor of Editor & Publisher, and Harvey G. Kelly, chairman American Newspaper Publishers association's standing committee.

Trophies Awarded for Almost Every Conceivable Golfing Achievement; Victor Hanson Takes Low Net.

James L. Ewing, of New Orleans, retained family possession of the N. P. A.'s golfing honors when he won the publishers' annual tournament at East Lake club Tuesday. His score of 88 was two strokes better than that of Glenn Allen, Atlanta, runner-up, and three strokes lower than his brother, John D. Ewing, of Shreveport, de-throned champion.

At the finish of the first nine holes it appeared that first and second honors were to be divided between the brothers, as John Ewing with 43 was leading his brother by 2 strokes at the turn. James, however, took the lead on the 11th hole when his brother required a 7 to extract himself from trouble as the result of a bad slice from the tee. Thereafter he was never headed.

Forty-two prizes were awarded to the winners of the various events of the association's annual tournament which was divided into two divisions, in one of which the publishers' invited guests were eligible to participate.

Sixty-six players took off in competition for the many prizes, chief of which were the first awards to winners of the low medal and handicap scores. The "hooky" prize for the highest gross score, however, afforded the feature competition of the day, and not until the last match was it was the winner a certainty. W. R. Harris, of Asheville, N. C., with 156, topped the doubtful "honor."

Victor J. Hanson, of Birmingham, annexed the handicap honors with a net score of 75. Walter H. Savory, of the Mergenthaler Linotype company, under whose supervision the tournaments have been held for the past few years, was elected Tuesday to an honorary membership in the N. P. A. for life.

that L. H. Beall, manager of the local branch of Sears-Roebuck company, and Frank Reynolds, of the Dinkler Hotels, Inc., have announced that brilliantly lighted signs on the store and Ausley hotel will guide pilots to Candler field within a few days.

In describing the first diplomatic flight in the history of the world, Major Dargue told of the cordial reception given his squadron in the countries visited and bared a story rife with romance and adventure rivaling any tale of the Vikings.

Yard and waste lands, over thickly forested areas in which a landing would have meant disaster, over swollen streams washed with equatorial rains and brilliant receptions staged with the formality of old Spain or the other Latin countries were described by the speaker in a vivid and highly interesting manner.

"The one outstanding criticism I have to make in all my observations is that Americans are not catering to the trade of Latin America and are almost crowded out by the more enterprising merchandise houses of England, France, Germany and Italy," Major Dargue said, in commenting on the commercial relations of the two countries.

Trade Neglected.
"America could be the fifth contender for commercial laurels of South America if her merchants were so disposed. There is a wealth of untapped business there, just awaiting. Then, too, the alleged unfriendly feeling of natives to Americans is not founded on fact. We were received royally in every capital and even in small villages where we refueled. Banquet tables actually were brought to the landing fields and constructed hastily in order to prevent delays and at the same time to administer to our comfort. At one place a mayor and an entire council waited 15 miles at night to welcome us and bring us coffee."

Henderson Hallman, president of the Atlanta branch of the National Aeronautical association, presided as toastmaster. Mayor I. N. Ragsdale, Major General "Zeke" Williams, commander of the 30th Aviation corporation, Benjamin S. Barker, executive vice president of the chamber of commerce, and George West, president of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, Captain George M. Hope and Walter F. Stewart, members of Fulton county commissioners, Alderman Claude E. Buchanan, of the eighth ward; Gregory Bowden, chairman of the aviation committee of the chamber of commerce; Beiler Blevins, local pilot and one of the first to locate a Candler field, Atlanta's air port; Willie Wright, secretary of the Atlanta chapter, N. A. A.; Earl Smith, stockholder of the Stinson-Detroit Aviation corporation; Benjamin S. Barker, executive vice president of the chamber of commerce; Major G. H. Frankle, of the intelligence department of the fourth corps area and classmate of Major Dargue at West Point; John E. Outley, Jr.,

vice president of the Atlanta N. A. A., and Dr. Herbert B. Kennedy, president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, were among the speakers.

Major Dargue and his comrades used five planes in the Pan-American tour and visited every country to the south of the United States on this hemisphere. He arrived Tuesday afternoon in Atlanta from Macon, and will leave this morning for Charleston, S. C., by way of Augusta.

Ad Prizes Are Awarded; Announcement Delayed

The committee on final judgments in the $4,000 amateur ad-writing contest of The Constitution met Tuesday afternoon and awarded the $300, $200, $100 and $50 grand cash prizes as well as the nine special prizes.

The splendid material received during the past few weeks made the task of the judges decidedly hard. The best ads were obtained through a weeding-out process. At the start all past prize-winning ads and all those received during the past two weeks were put on an equal basis and the best ones selected.

Then the judges kept on eliminating until they had the two best ads for each company. From the 48 ads that remained, the grand prize winners were chosen by ballot. Between each set of ballots was discussion on the merits of the advertising ideas presented.

Names of the winners will not be made known until their eligibility has been established. One of the rules of this contest is that the three grand prize-winning contestants must have written at least one ad for each contest-advertiser some time during the life of the contest.

Then, too, the winners' standing as amateurs must be carefully probed. It is only after a thorough checkup has been made to see that the letter of the rules governing the contest have been lived up to that the winners will be made known. The great amount of detail this will involve will hardly make possible the announcing of the winners before Tuesday of the coming week.

Following are the local advertising experts serving as judges: W. R. Massengale of the Massengale Advertising agency; Horace M. Bowman, instructor in advertising and salesmanship at the Georgia School of Technology; Eleanor Kreiger, advertising manager of Sears, Roebuck & Co.; M. P. Cannon, advertising manager of the Haverly Furniture company; C. B. McMillen, advertising manager of the L. F. M. store; Theo. S. Lewis, advertising manager of the Buick Motor Car company, Atlanta branch; Leonard Anderson, advertising manager of the J. P. Allen company; Frank King, advertising manager of the J. M. High company, and Belle Pepper, advertising manager of the Southern Baking company.

If your Pavement is Bad, re-surface it with BRICK

Perhaps your street is in bad condition and you are considering having it re-built.

Why not get full salvage value for your old street pavement by using it as a base for a fine brick surface.

Extensive tests conducted by the U. S. Government prove that various materials make excellent bases for brick surfaces. Your City Engineer is familiar with these Government findings. Ask him about brick surfacing old pavement.

Paving brick, being vitrified, makes the finest known wearing surface for any street. This surface is tough—nothing on wheels can damage it. It has a resilient sand cushion to take up traffic shocks. It is totally proof against destructive weather conditions—thus actual insurance of lowest paving cost.

Brick surfaced streets look attractive. They are safe and smooth riding and always open to traffic.

"The A. B. C. of Good Paving," a taxpayer's manual, tells in words and pictures how engineers today build ever-wearing, low cost, brick surfaced roads and streets. Address your request to National Paving Brick Manufacturers Association, 332 South Michigan Avenue, Chicago.

LAW OBSERVANCE MEET HERE TODAY

With 500 representatives of law enforcement agencies in Georgia, expected to attend a two-day conference called by the Georgia Woman's Christian Temperance union, the first day's session will open at the Henry Grady hotel at 9:30 o'clock this morning with the key-note address being delivered by Mrs. Marvin Williams, of Atlanta, state president of the W. C. T. U.

How to secure better law observance and better law enforcement for prohibition will be the general theme of the conference, which will bring together many civic leaders among the women of Georgia as well as prominent visitors from outside the state to participate in the program. A political turn is expected to be given to the conference with the organizations represented throwing their influence against national opponents of prohibition.

The outstanding speaker scheduled for the night session of the first day is Robert L. Owen, former United States senator from Oklahoma. Mr. Owen, whose address will be delivered at the Wesley Memorial church, 8 o'clock tonight, has been suggested by many democratic women's organizations as a possible presidential candidate. He will be preceded by another feature talker of the conference, Mrs. Nello G. Burger, president of the Missouri W. C. T. U. Mrs. Burger, it is understood, will make an anti-Reed speech, expected to show that the record of Senator Reed, of Missouri, places him in the same category with Governor Al Smith, of New York, as opponents of the prohibition movement and unacceptable candidates to the union for the coming presidential elections.

Among the speakers at this morning's session, at the Henry Grady hotel, will be Mrs. Williams; Mrs. P. H. Jeter, president of the Georgia Parent-Teacher association; Mrs. John W. Rowlett, representing the president of the D. A. R. of Georgia; Mrs. J. E. Andrews, president woman's committee on law enforcement; R. E. Tuttle, federal prohibition administrator of Georgia, Florida and South Carolina; and Mrs. Florence Atkins, national lecturer and organizer. Dr. Charles O. Jones, state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of Georgia, will preside, and a number of musical selections will be included in the morning meeting.

Between 3 and 5 o'clock this afternoon members of the conference will be given a reception by the Druid Hills W. C. T. U. at the home of Mrs. N. C. McPherson, 1436 Highland avenue. The night session at Wesley Memorial church will be presided over by Mrs. Williams and will be featured by the address of Mrs. Burger, of Missouri, and former Senator Owen. The speakers will be introduced by Governor L. G. Hardman and Mrs. Williams. The conference will then adjourn until 9:30 o'clock Thursday morning, when it will be reopened at the Henry Grady hotel with Mrs. Williams again presiding.

The closing high light of the conference will be a banquet for the Georgia state legislators at the Atlanta Athletic club, at 8 o'clock Thursday night. Among the speakers Thursday afternoon will be T. Hicks Fort, chairman of the board of education of Muscogee county; Mrs. Mary Harris Arthur, national lecturer and organizer, and Seaborn Wright, member of the state legislature.

PUBLISHERS ELECT EWING NEW PRESIDENT

both that paper and The States. He has served as democratic national committee man for a number of years and has a powerful influence in state politics.

Numerous resolutions were passed Tuesday morning by the publishers, chief among which were papers reaffirming the position of the association that war-time postal rates on second class mail should be repealed and reduced to the schedule of 1920; adopting the recommendation of the advertising committee that the association suspend its joint advertising campaign and turn the remaining money into the general fund of the association; electing Walter H. Sawyer, of the Merchenthaler Linotype company, an honorary life member of the organization in view of his conspicuous service to the association; pledging the support of the association for early consummation of the Stone Mountain Memorial carving; and recommending to the faculty of the Lee School of Journalism the adoption of a book, "Covering Washington," by J. Fred Essary, southern newspaperman, as a textbook.

Sympathy of the association was extended to Clark Howell, Jr., business manager of The Constitution, in his illness, the association voicing happiness that he is now convalescent. Deep and heartfelt sympathy was extended to James R. Holliday, of The Constitution, in the untimely death of his son.

The association expressed thanks to Hollins N. Randolph, president of the Stone Mountain Memorial association, and to the association itself, for the barbeque tendered the convention. Other resolutions formally expressed appreciation of the faithful and splendid services of retiring officers and directors and appreciation to The Associated Press, United News, International News Service and Consolidated Press for cooperation in sending their representatives to the convention for conferences.

To Guide the Editors' Destinies in 1927-28

In the group at the top are shown the first two presidents of the Southern Newspaper Publishers' association and the newly-elected head of the body—but "old-timers" all. From left to right: J. C. Hemphill, of The Charleston (S. C.) News and Courier, second president of the association; Colonel Robert Ewing, publisher of The New Orleans States, incoming president, and H. H. Cabaniss, former publisher of The Atlanta Journal, and the association's first chief executive.

At the bottom, left, is seen Walter C. Johnson, of The Chattanooga News, newly-elected treasurer of the association; W. M. Armistead, of N. W. Ayer & Son, Philadelphia, who will address the meeting today; in the center, John A. Park, of The Raleigh (N. C.) Times, retiring president.

A telegram of sympathy was sent to the Houston Post-Dispatch following receipt of the news that Colonel George H. Bailey, publisher of that paper, had died.

Annual Banquet. The silver jubilee of the association was celebrated Tuesday night in the annual banquet at the Piedmont Driving club, when H. H. Cabaniss, the first president, was presented with a silver loving cup by Walter C. Johnson, retiring chairman of the board.

The scene of the delightful banquet was the open air dance floor of the driving club, with Japanese lanterns strung around in profusion. The address was broadcast by WSB, the radio station of the Journal.

Walter Johnson, of The Chattanooga Times, known as the "heart beat" of the association from his long service as secretary-treasurer, and in other official capacities, including that of president, introduced the past presidents who attended the dinner, John A. Park, of The Raleigh Times; A. G. Newmyer, of The New Orleans Item-Tribune; W. A. Elliott, of The Jacksonville Times-Union; M. E. Foster, of The Houston Texas Chronicle; A. F. Sanford, of The Knoxville Journal; V. H. Hanson, of The Birmingham News; and J. C. Hemphill, of The Charleston News and Courier.

Loving Cup Presented. Following the introduction of the past presidents, Mr. Johnson presented Colonel Cabaniss with a silver loving cup in behalf of the association, in words which gave tribute to the excellent service rendered the organization by Mr. Cabaniss, and voiced the love and esteem of the association for the venerable journalist. Voicing the opinion that the "mighty work of the press is due to accomplish miracles," and that "large-ly through its work war will be abolished," Mr. Cabaniss responded to the tribute paid him by the association. "Where open, honest publicity is given to the affairs of nations, questions at variance will be settled by arbitration and other successful means," he said.

"The press is the great aid of the public, and our great papers present daily lessons of peace, usefulness, devotion to duty and all the great principles of the Sermon on the Mount. There is no benevolence, no great philanthropy ever proposed that does not meet and have the fullest cooperation of the great daily press," Mr. Cabaniss said. "Its work is enduring, ineffaceable, and uplifting. It will be so to the end of time, for the work of the past is a solemn binding guarantee for all time to come."

"Slim" Lindbergh and Commander Byrd and other aviators have done one great favor to the public not yet mentioned—they have crowded murders and salacious scandals off the front page," Mr. Cabaniss pointed out. "Let us hope that some permanent good may come from this," he said, adding that it is so rare to hear of corruption of the press that he could not recall a single instance.

Formed in 1902. In 1902, the association was composed of the leading publishers of the south, who then felt the responsibility that rested upon them, Mr. Cabaniss said. "Many of those members are here this evening. And there comes to them no regret for duty not faithfully done. The difference then and now is the enlarged field of usefulness. The country is greater now by far than then, but the daily press of the south has kept step. And the future is bright, for here you are equipped and ready to measure up to the full expectations of the hour."

As a vice president of the Associated Press, director of the A. N. P. A., and first president of the Southern Newspaper Publishers' organization, Mr. Cabaniss had an active part in starting the newspapers of the south on the great career of wonderful achievement, and he is active yet in the real of journalism despite his 79 years.

Mr. Cabaniss served as president of the association from 1903 to 1905, and at that time was a large stockholder in The Journal, he and Hoke Smith, then a member of President Cleveland's cabinet, being the major owners. Later he was part owner of the Augusta, Ga., Chronicle, although he now owns no stock in either that paper or The Journal.

In presiding as toastmaster, Mr. Howell recalled incidents of the organization meeting of 25 years ago, and declared, in a tribute to the first president, that he and Mr. Cabaniss have been pleasantly associated newspaper work for more than 40 years. He reaffirmed his statement of 25 years ago, that the spirit of Atlanta is displayed by the newspapers of this city, the personal relations between the local publishers having always been those of the most cordial sort.

Cohen Speaks. Major John S. Cohen, of The Journal, in speaking for Atlanta, said that the city does not brag. Atlanta's citizens have for the most part come from somewhere else, but the city is entirely typical of the south, with the people proud of their traditions. The city has a wonderful past and a marvelous future, he declared.

Mr. Hanson, who was formerly with the advertising department of The Constitution before entering the publishing field, gave his recollections of the organization meeting, and declared that since the war, high prices of labor and materials have made newspapers adopt real business methods, to their advantage. He cited the case of the recent sale of a Memphis paper for $1,000,000, stating that, before the war, ten papers could have been bought for that amount. The S. N. P. A. is the most effective, closely coordinated association of its kind in America, he said.

Harry Adler, publisher of The Chattanooga Times; George Morris, of The Memphis Commercial Appeal; J. C. Hemphill, of The Charleston News and Courier; Josephus Daniels, publisher of The Raleigh News and Courier; Sam W. Small, veteran writer for The Constitution; Fred Sullens, of Jackson, Miss., and Robert Ewing, publisher of The New Orleans States and Shreveport Times, and newly-elected president of the association, all made short addresses.

Small's Son Praised. Mr. Small, who recently celebrated his seventy-sixth birthday, is the oldest journalist in active harness in the south. He traced the redemption of the south from the war between the states, and said that editors and publishers of the south had more to do with its regeneration than any other class serving this section. The newspapers brought the south into the position it holds today, he said.

Colonel Ewing suggested the title of "Magic City of the South" instead of the gate city of Atlanta, stating that this city gets pay rolls because it goes after them. The progress of Atlanta is due to the spirit of its people, he declared.

The convention will close this afternoon following the selection of the 1928 convention city. Lively competition is expected over the convention city, as Biloxi, Miss.; Memphis, Tenn.; Gulfport, Miss.; Charleston, S. C., and Asheville, N. C., are after the meeting next year.

Special committees of the association will report this morning, following an address on "The Growth of Southern Advertising During the Past Twenty-Five Years," by W. A. Armistead, of N. W. Ayer & Son.

Atkinson Presides. Tuesday's business session was held under the chairmanship of Charles D. Atkinson, of The Atlanta Journal, and was known as circulation-mechanical day. There were short addresses by C. C. Haru, of the audit bureau of circulation; Harvey J. Kelly, chairman of the standing labor committee of the American Newspaper Publishers' association, and W. E. Wines, manager of the A. N. P. A. mechanical department.

Discussing progress of the audit bureau of circulation, Mr. Haru urged that the work be kept up, and recommended support of ethical practices in the business offices of daily papers. Mr. Kelly spoke of labor troubles and their relation to a newspaper plant, stating that bullies are made by too much power, and that close cooperation by publishers can combat over-aggression on the part of unfair labor organizations. Reversal of the union's decision in recent labor troubles in the northwest was due to the attitude of the publishers in not being afraid to suspend publication, he said.

An intensive study of many subjects of interest to the mechanical department is being made, and bulletins will be issued as soon as enough data to justify them is assembled, Mr. Wines declared. "We must have the cooperation of pressmen, if we are to make a success of our new mechanical department. The response so far has been very encouraging, and our plans for the future are extensive."

While a large number of publishers and guests of the convention competed in the annual golf tournament Tuesday afternoon at the East Lake Country club, other members of the association were guests on a tour through the Atlanta federal penitentiary.

TYLER ENGAGED FOR PINAFORE

deed who does not get to enjoy this great show this week.

It took about two weeks to rub out all the rough points but they are gone permanently now as can be attested by the performances of "The Blue Paradise." The best way to be convinced is to witness one of the performances of this show and there will be only one answer.

"The Blue Paradise" brings some great opportunities for Louis Templeman, baritone; Miss Claire Madeline, prima donna; Alice Mackenzie, soprano and comedienne; Madeline McMahon, soubrette; Charles Gallagher, basso; Sudward Frasier, tenor, and Roland Woodruff and Richard Powell, comedians. Its musical numbers are lifting, catchy and numerous. The dances are odd and quaint, there is a delightful flavor of life in Europe's gayest capital, Vienna, in the theme and there's a sweet little love tale that appeals to all hearts. It is a delightful show from start to finish and has established the reputation of this year's company on a high peak. It will be hard to surpass the work of the company this week in "The Blue Paradise," no matter what opera may be selected for the future.

While "The Pink Lady" and "The Red Mill" were two old standbys that served well for opening operas many of their times have been heard time and again for decades. It took "The Blue Paradise" to bring an all-new score with every number a fresh one and with songs that have not often played to death on phonographs, street pianos and hand organs. It is the freshness and the newness of "The Blue Paradise" that appeals and with such a perfect presentation as it gets from the municipal company it provides one of the most pleasing musical shows seen here in years presented by any company.

NATIONAL FLOOD AID BODY FORMED

Chicago, July 5.—(AP)—A national organization to further flood control measures and relief will be established with headquarters here and in Washington, it was announced today by Mayor William Hale Thompson, chairman of the executive committee of the Chicago flood control conference which closed here recently.

A meeting of the executive committee of the conference, held at Big Lake, Phelps, Wis., July 2 drew conclusions which will lead to the establishment of a national working organization, the raising of a fund of $100,000 for organization work throughout the Mississippi valley and the continuation of plans drawn in the conference here.

Those attending the meeting were Mayor Arthur J. O'Keefe, New Orleans; W. M. Jacoby, Pittsburgh; W. K. Kavanaugh, St. Louis; former Senator Leroy Percy, Greenville, Miss.; J. M. Thompson, New Orleans; William L. Loring, Chicago, and Thomas J. Hill, secretary of the conference. Roy O. West was the only absent member. He is in Europe.

INDIANA KLAN LEADER EXPOSES CORRUPTION

Moore, attorney for Stephenson, to ask that he accompany them to the interview with the prisoner.

"You have told me Stephenson is ready to tell all he knows about political crimes in this state," Mr. Remy told the lawyer. "Now we are here to listen to his story."

Moore objects to Moore. Attorney Moore was strenuous in his objections to the sudden move, which he declared was an effort to rush him and Stephenson off their feet.

"I informed you, Mr. Remy," he said, "that Stephenson was ready to talk and that I would notify you when to come down. We are not to be rushed in this matter."

"It is true that Stephenson was prepared to tell an amazing story and we are anxious to have him tell it, but he has rights which must be protected and I insist that I be permitted to have a private interview with him before he makes a statement."

"There can be no reason for delay," responded Prosecutor Remy. "If he wants to tell the truth he should be as ready now to tell it as at any other time. We will go out to the prison, come what may of the results."

After their interview with the prisoner the prosecutors declared Attorney Moore had acted in good faith and that Stephenson had told them Moore had advised him to tell the entire truth.

No Guards Present. Warden Walter H. Daley greeted the prosecutors on their arrival and ushered them to Stephenson's cell. Upon his return he said that no prison guards or attaches were present at the interview. He said that no one has been permitted to see the prisoner without a prison official being present.

Attorney Moore tonight revealed an interview with Stephenson last week when the Klan leader made up his mind to break his silence of two years.

"Stephenson gave me this message," said Moore: "At the proper time I will set myself right with the people of Indiana. This is my solemn pledge and in all my life I have never broken my word. If the people of Indiana will believe me now, as God is my judge, I will not betray them."

Moore declared that Stephenson, if he did give Remy information which would lead to a state-wide exposure of corruption, followed the advice he had given. The lawyer said he probably would see Stephenson tomorrow to discuss with him the details of further statements to prosecutors.

PAROLE DENIED BY GOVERNOR

Indianapolis, Ind., July 5.—(AP) Governor Ed Jackson today approved the recommendation of the prison trustees in denying the request of D. C. Stephenson, life prisoner at Michigan City, for a 90-day parole.

Stephenson on May 16 requested that he be given his freedom temporarily so that he might take personal charge of his appeal to the Indiana supreme court from the original conviction. He was sentenced in November, 1925, to life imprisonment for the murder of Miss Madge Oberholzer, of Indianapolis.

The prison trustees, sitting as a parole board, denied the petition last Friday. At the same time, the board read a report from the board of state charities in which Stephenson's charges of being tortured since being sent to prison were held to be unwarranted.

In addition to the original appeal from the conviction, the Hamilton circuit court has before it an appeal from the Laporte superior court on its refusal to release Stephenson from prison on a writ of habeas corpus. In the suit for a writ of habeas corpus it was contended Stephenson was held illegally.

of seeking the best equipment and teachers for its schools, and of maintening its equipment and teaching staff at a high standard.

"The board's consideration of Mr. Acree's case is one of many matters discussed at the regular meeting of the board. The board is not ready to make any announcement of its action or the details of its discussions today."

"The Eastonville school is the Stephens county high school and is one of the best institutions of its kind in the state, employing nine teachers including the principal, and because of its importance in the educational system of the county we are anxious that its equipment and teaching staff at all times be maintained at the highest standard possible."

NO BILLS RETURNED IN FINLEY AND WILLIAMS CASES

were returned by the grand jury later in the cases of Jim Ferguson, T. R. Lowry, W. O. Hill and W. G. Acree, against whom joint indictments had been prepared in connection with the flooding of Mrs. Finley and Miss Williams.

The tentative indictments, drawn by the solicitor as is customary in grand jury procedure, charged assault with intent to commit murder and riot, but they were returned in open court marked no bills, indicating that the grand jury had not received sufficient evidence on which to indict.

The four men previously had been arrested and released under bond on warrants sworn out by the two women, and it was indicated that the grand jury's action automatically would dismiss these charges.

Having speeded up its work to dispose of these cases this afternoon, when it previously had been announced they would be taken up tomorrow, the grand jury was believed to have completed its investigation of flogging outrages in the county.

cluded estimates of the needs of participating powers, provided there was to be a cessation of competitive naval building. There was no disposition among authorities here to concur in any program that would virtually double these estimates.

At the same time it was pointed out that the Geneva conference created its technical committees precisely for the purpose of developing in detail views of the naval experts of the three powers on just such complicated questions as that involved in the cruiser tonnage discussion.

In the absence of a detailed report from Ambassador Gibson as to the form and substance of the 400,000-ton cruiser tonnage maximum put forward today by the American group there was no means of determining what limiting conditions it might involve in the way of replacement schedules, years of active life, or other factors.

Another pilot on the ground took off and attempted to fly underneath the plane and rescue Miss Barrett, but the wing was too "bumpy" and he was finally forced to land.

Finally, his gasoline running low, Ellis headed for a ploughed field a mile away where he made a safe landing in the soft dirt.

WEDDING OF OTIS DECLARED PROVED; ESTATE AT STAKE

New York, July 5.—(AP)—The New York World says it has positive proof that Charles E. Otis, of Yonkers, son of the founder of the Otis Elevator Co., whose will is being contested, was legally married to a Miss Margaret Otis Nobis, six months before he died at the age of 91.

The executors, who filed a petition at White Plains, N. Y., Saturday asking proof of the wedding, have Mr. Otis' will, dated March 1936, which was executed before the death of his first wife, and leaves the bulk of a $515,000 estate to her, and through her to five nephews.

The World states that Miss Nobis, 52, a second cousin of Mr. Otis, was taken under his care at the age of 12 when her widowed mother faced poverty on a small Baton Rouge, La., plantation. He later sent her to Northfield seminary, Northfield, Mass., a New York art school, Columbia Teachers' college and a nurse training school in Philadelphia for an extensive education.

Learning of the illness nine years ago of Mr. and Mrs. Otis, Miss Nobis dropped her nursing practice in Spartanburg, S. C., and went to care for them. The first Mrs. Otis died in February, 1923. Last October the sick man went to Charleston, S. C. According to the World, official records there show that he and Miss Nobis were married in the Francis Marion hotel last November 15, by a magistrate.

COURTNEY PLANE NEAR COMPLETION

(Special cable to The Constitution and the South American News-Press Alliance. Copyright, 1937, in all countries by Great Britain by the North American News-Press Alliance, in Great Britain by The Westminster—Zettie.)

Cajahote, Southampton, July 5.—Work on Captain F. E. Courtney's Dornier Napier "Whale" the broad-beamed all-metal flying boat with which he hopes to accomplish a new and difficult venture, the first westward flight across the Atlantic, was resumed here feverishly today.

Paged down securely to a beaching trolley of the type used at the royal air force base for landing service boats, the "Whale" was given over to radio men and experts in the installation of navigation instruments.

One of the most interesting and important devices which was installed today was the Marconi direction finder. This device, operated by radio, enables a pilot to keep his course under the worst possible conditions.

On the darkest of nights the navigator can obtain his exact position by calling for signals from ships. The strength or weakness of the signals, received through fones strapped to his ears enables him to determine the distance of the plane from the ships.

The range of Captain Courtney's instruments, which include the direction finder, a radio transmitting set and an all-round receiving set, will vary according to atmospheric conditions.

Captain Courtney declared today that under ordinary conditions he will be able to communicate with Atlantic liners over a distance of between 500 and 600 miles. Radio reports telling details of the progress of the flight, are to be sent out by Captain Courtney exclusively to the North American News-Press Alliance in the United States and the Westminster Gazette in England. Newspapers associated with the North American News-Press Alliance will receive these reports exclusively.

Two airmen are to be carried aboard the "Whale," one, of rectangular shape, will be used for the receiving and transmitting of signals for the direction finder. The other, which will be suspended below the machine and weighted to keep it clear of the tail of the machine, will send and receive Captain Courtney's communications with the outside world during his long flight across the Atlantic.

Gadgets Installed. As the plane is all metal, experts had little difficulty today in installing gadgets from which to suspend the various instruments and equipment. Upon the arrival of the landing wheels, now en route from Pisa, Italy, the big plane will be hoisted on a spoolway and placed on a compass base in order that any errors in the various compasses may be corrected.

The comparison and correction of the compasses is of vital importance and it is expected that Captain Courtney will depend a great deal to guide him along the uncharted air field of the North Atlantic.

As for the Birger trial, Franklin County has prepared for extreme violence. The courthouse looks like a fort, with its machine guns guarding all entrances. Thirty deputy sheriffs will man the guns, and 120 soldiers are ready for an emergency call.

MIAMI BEACH HOTEL OWNER DIES IN FIRE

Miami Beach, Fla., July 5.—(AP)—Tatem Wofford, 55, pioneer resident of this section and owner of the well-known Wofford hotel here, was burned to death early today in a fire of unknown origin which partially destroyed his hotel.

Firemen searching the ruins of the lobby found the body of Mr. Wofford with his face charred and his clothes badly burned. The hotel had been closed for the summer, and only Mr. Wofford and a negro known as Sambo, were believed to be residing in the building at the time. The negro was missing today, but it was thought he had been given yesterday off on a holiday.

A careful search of the building indicated no guests were in the hotel, although several persons had resided there during the recent Lions convention and the awards of the Lions beauty pageant were made in the hotel.

The blaze was believed to have started on the second floor and spread rapidly to other parts of the structure. Fanned by a moderate wind, the fire was brought under control with difficulty. Damage was estimated at $40,000. The Wofford was one of the best known Beach hotels and occupied a conspicuous position facing the ocean.

Mr. Wofford is survived by his widow and two sons, all of whom are visiting relatives in Lumpkin, Ga. Mr. Wofford is a native of Florida and has lived in this section the greater part of his life.

Police Officer Fisher, who had been held at the city jail since the tragedy was transferred to county jail Tuesday morning. Coroner Diffy exonerated the officer on the grounds that he acted in self-defense, at an inquest held Monday. It was believed by county officials that the officer will waive hearing to the grand jury, which convenes next Monday.

GIRL PARACHUTE JUMPER DANGLES AT END OF ROPE

Minneapolis, Minn., July 5.—(AP)—Dangling at the end of a rope 2,000 feet in this air for a half hour, Miss Evelyn Barrett, 19-year-old Minneapolis girl, narrowly escaped death yesterday when the pilot of an airplane from which she attempted a parachute jump landed in a plowed field.

Uninjured and undaunted by her narrow escape, Miss Barrett, a telephone operator, demanded that she be permitted to try again. Her second attempt was successful.

Hired to entertain a crowd of 3,000 at a country Fourth of July program, Miss Barrett climbed out on the wing of the plane as it soared 2,000 feet and swung off. But the rope holding her parachute to the wing strut had been tied in a slip knot, and her efforts to loosen it tightened its grip.

Another pilot on the ground took off and attempted to fly underneath the plane and rescue Miss Barrett, but the wing was too "bumpy" and he was finally forced to land.

Finally, his gasoline running low, Ellis headed for a ploughed field a mile away where he made a safe landing in the soft dirt.

FORMER RUMANIAN PREMIER DENIES POCKETING FUNDS

(Copyright, 1937, for The Constitution and the Chicago Tribune.)

Bucharest, July 5.—Former Premier Averescu has published a long denial of the charge that he and his associates pocketed 13,000 lei belonging to the public treasury, explaining that the money was expended to strengthen the vital national defense.

The exact nature of the expenditure is not mentioned and the intimation is made that in the interest of the country he demands that the matter be kept secret. He, however, agrees to publish the details if the government insists. It is believed M. Averescu refers to the intelligence service during the period when relations between England and Russia were broken and war was thought possible.

RELOCATION OF NEGRO SCHOOL ACTED UPON

Relocation of Dimmock, negro school of the tenth ward, loomed Tuesday when the board passed a resolution designed to accomplish this. Roy D. Warren, school commissioner from the tenth, presented the motion, contending that the school should be moved nearer the center of the negro population in the interest of segregation.

FLIES WINGS AID IN MEASUREMENT OF STARS' HEAT

Washington, July 5.—(United News.)—"Flie" wings form part of a delicate instrument which will be used by Dr. Charles G. Abbot, of the Smithsonian institution, for measuring the heat of the stars.

Dr. Abbot is en route to Mount Wilson, Cal., to conduct his experiments. The "radiometer" is so sensitive that it could measure the heat of a match 5,000 miles away if no atmosphere intervened, the scientist said.

ILLINOIS PREPARES FOR TRIAL OF BIRGER

Marion, Ill., July 5.—(United News.)—The prelude to the murder trial of "Machine Gun" Charlie Birger was nearly completed today as two former Birgerettes, charged with another murder, testified in their own behalf.

Birger, once gang lord of southern Illinois; Art Newman, his former lieutenant, and Ray Hyland, a gangster, are scheduled to go on trial Wednesday at Benton, Ill., for the killing of Mayor Joe Adams, of West City, Ill. They have been implicated in the crime by Harry Thomason, a youth, who has confessed that he and his brother received $50 a shot for killing the mayor. Thomason is serving a life sentence.

Radio Millich and Ural Gowan are the Birgerettes on trial here for the murder of Ward Jones, a Shelton sympathizer. The Sheltons were Birger's enemies in the beer-running game in southern Illinois. Gowan's testimony is significant.

"I was afraid to tell authorities," he said, answering a question pertaining to the murders. "There were too many Birger men still out of jail then, and any fellow who told what he knew was liable to get killed."

Millich claimed he shot Jones in self-defense at Shady Rest, Birger's roundhouse and miniature arsenal, after Jones had fired on him with a machine gun.

As for the Birger trial, Franklin County has prepared for extreme violence. The courthouse looks like a fort, with its machine guns guarding all entrances. Thirty deputy sheriffs will man the guns, and 120 soldiers are ready for an emergency call.

On June 23 this year the fascist party announced that Signor Zuckert Halaparte had been appointed president of the Alpine club of Italian youth and is an official body.

ITALIAN FASCISTS FACE NEW CRISIS

BY DIPLOMATICUS.
(Copyright, 1937, for The Constitution and the Chicago Tribune.)

Lugano, Switzerland, July 6.—Benito Mussolini, Italy's first fascist premier, is faced with one of the gravest decisions of his career in the immediate future—a decision, which may split the fascist party wide open.

After nearly two years of evasion, Il Duce must choose between the young intellectuals who have been advancing the party beyond the caste of old hodgepodge states and the old elements who demand a term action.

Premier Mussolini has been brought face to face with this necessity through the quarrel between Mario Carli and Emilio Zettemelli, editors of Impero, organ of the "stern actionist" element, on one side, against Curzio Zuckert Halaparte, editor of La Conquistata dello Stato; Telo Interlandi, editor of l'Evere and others of the young intellectual group. The quarrel came to a violent end a few days ago, with attacks on Signor Zuckert Halaparte and Signor Interlandi's action in seizing every copy of Impero in Rome he could lay his hands on and publicly burning it.

Charge Misappropriation. The roots of the struggle go back to an incident in 1919 when two writers on Popolo d'Italia named Rosatto and Giovanni Capodavica resigned after 500,000 lire (about $15,000) was reported to have "appeared from the Popo Fiume" fund collected by Popolo d'Italia for Gabriele d'Annunzio.

These two writers went to Avenio, organ of the fascist movement, and alleged misappropriation of funds and said they could no longer work for a man guilty of such turpitude.

Impero, answering a question pertaining to the murders. "There were too many Birger men still out of jail then, and any fellow who told what he knew was liable to get killed."

Millich claimed he shot Jones in self-defense at Shady Rest, Birger's roundhouse and miniature arsenal, after Jones had fired on him with a machine gun.

DRIED-OUT BOWELS HOLD MALARIA IN YOUR SYSTEM

If malaria is in your system, the only way to get it out without torturing and upsetting yourself is to take Dodson's Liver Tonic to clean out all the bile from the liver and bowels, and carry the germs out with it.

Never take calomel. That's wrong. Calomel is mercury—a dangerous drug. It jars the liver and cleans constipated bowels, that's true. But it salivates you—makes you sick and you lose a day from your work. It stifles the muscles of the bowels, deadens them so they can't act at all.

Dodson's Liver Tonic cleans you out good and the liver is free to get the malarial germs out of your blood, and the bowels can carry them off. Before you realize it the chills and fever stop. Malaria is gone.

Get the big bottle of Dodson's Liver Tonic from your nearest store. They all have it. Keep it in the house so you will have it handy to take nights before you go to bed.—(adv.)

SENATE BODY TO HEAR PROTEST OF VENABLE

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Thursday in open hearing a senate committee will give ear to the protest of S. H. Venable, one of the owners of the property on which the Stone Mountain Confederate memorial is being carved, against a bill now favorably reported by the committee, empowering the memorial association to condemn certain lands in DeKalb county for use in connection with the monument to the south of 1861-65.

In a circular distributed among the senators and read in the senate chamber Tuesday, Venable charged that "it was so engineered that no one except advocates of the measure were aware of the hearing" last Thursday when senate judiciary committee No. 1 favorably reported the bill. He said the committee was ordered after the protest was read.

Venable asserted that "it is obvious that this is a move to acquire title to the memorial site itself" while "the association would have you believe that it has all the property it desires for the actual memorial site and that the pending legislation authorizes the association to condemn an immense north of the mountain for park purposes because of the excellence of the view of the memorial."

His letter outlined the history of the memorial, asserting that it was clearly stipulated when the memorial site was decided to the association eleven years and two months ago that if the memorial were not completed within 12 years the property would revert to the Venable family.

"Not a chisel," Venable asserted, "has been put to the memorial since 1925. The only work done has been the partial removal of the crust of the mountain, despite the fact that they have heeded all over America that they are carving the stupendous figures of the heroes of the Confederacy."

"It is my understanding that the head of Robert E. Lee is to be blasted from the mountain, and if this is true the mountain will be as high as when we decided the property to the association."

"You will see that it is a practical impossibility for the association to accomplish in the next 10 months what it has miserably failed to do in eleven years and two months."

"Knowing that fact, we have decided the property to the U. D. C. which was originally intended only when the memorial association's deed expires next April, the property passes into the hands of the U. D. C."

"You will now understand that this bill is an effort to confiscate the property and prevent its reversion to the donors or the U. D. C."

"The unfairness of the bill will be made clear to you. This is a move by a private corporation to acquire privately owned land. There is no precedent for it anywhere."

RETURN OF CHRIST REVIVAL SUBJECT IN EAST ATLANTA

At the large pavilion near Moreland and Faith avenues, East Atlanta, Evangelist B. H. Shaw addressed his audience Tuesday night on the subject of the "Pre-millennial Return of Christ."

The evangelist spoke, in part, as follows: "Two views are held on this subject. They are known, respectively, as pre-millennialism and post-millennialism. A partial definition would be as follows: The post-millennialist believes that sin is not so serious a thing as it was once thought to be and that it will be gradually eliminated from the world. He believes that the moral trend of the human race is upward and that the world is getting better and better. He looks forward to a long vista of progress and growth uninterrupted by any such calamity as the personal literal return of Christ."

The speaker then outlined his plan of treatment.

After a brief treatment of the subject, the speaker announced as his subject for Wednesday night "The Signs of the Times."

CHAMBERLIN TO TRY ENDURANCE FLIGHT

(Curtis Field, N. Y., July 5.—(United News.)—Clarence Chamberlin and Charles A. Levine will attempt to break the world's endurance flight in the Biplane monoplane, Columbia, shortly after the plane is brought back from Germany, according to tonight's announcement by Joseph B. May, secretary to Levine.

May pointed out that Chamberlin and Levine made their epochal non-stop flight from New York to Germany, already holds the endurance record of 15 hours, 51 minutes.

May said Levine would be Chamberlin's co-pilot. Bert Acosta was Chamberlin's companion when the endurance record was made in April.

May pointed out that the Columbia carried 70 more gallons of gasoline to Germany than when it established the endurance record, and that 15 additional gallons could be taken in place of equipment required by the trans-Atlantic trip.

The monoplane carried 385 gallons on its endurance flight and 455 to Germany. An increase of 15 gallons totaling 470 gallons, should permit the plane to remain aloft more than 60 hours, May concluded.

FLORIDA EDITORS INVITE HARDMAN TO "LOVE FEAST"

John Temple Graves II, editor of The Jacksonville Journal, headed a group of Florida newspapermen who called on Governor Hardman Tuesday to present an invitation from Governor Martin, of Florida, to attend a joint Georgia-Florida "love feast" to be held in Jacksonville July 18.

The governor was unable to give a definite answer, due, he said, to the prospect of work to be done in connection with the present legislative session, but he expressed his appreciation of the invitation.

With Mr. Graves were Colonel Herbert Fekel, of The St. Augustine Record; P. P. Bedlow, of The Jacksonville Journal; and R. L. Swader, of The Quincy Times.

DOG GONE, JOY TOO

Policeman's Son Loses Pet Day Before Fourth.
Call Officer Paul L. Williams, of 1144 Hardie street, N. E., spent all of his off duty hours Monday and Tuesday looking for "Bulger," a white bulldog, with a black spot over his right eye. The dog is a pet of Officer Williams' son, Harry, who asked other members of the police department to be on the lookout for his pet.

Instead of enjoying the Fourth of day, young Williams didn't enjoy the day so much, because his dog was not with him, having disappeared last Sunday afternoon. A reward is offered for his return.

CUTCLIFFE RELEASE TO BE DECIDED TODAY

Arguments in the habeas corpus hearing seeking the release of Walter Cutcliffe from a suspended sentence of eight months, declared effective despite a pardon issued by former Governor Clifford Walker, were begun late Tuesday before Judge E. D. Thomas in Fulton superior court.

Solicitor General John A. Boykin is slated to conclude the hearing with his argument this morning. Attorney Paul L. Lindsay having delivered his argument for his client Tuesday. Judge Thomas will render a decision when the case is tendered him.

The solicitor has called several witnesses in an effort to prove that Cutcliffe had not been a law-abiding citizen during the period covered in the application for pardon. Mr. Boykin claims that the pardon was secured on misrepresentations of facts.

The plaintiff contends that the executive authority is not subject to review by the state courts.

COLUMBUS READY TO FLEE BEFORE RISE OF RIVER

Columbus, Ky., July 5.—(AP)—Columbus was preparing today to retreat before the mighty Mississippi.

The town has been threatened for more than a week with continual slides beginning to endanger the center of the town. A small slide last night caused citizens to prepare to move away from the bank.

A number of families previously had been driven back. Part of the V. C. page home has been swept away by the river, while the home of J. L. Sanders was torn down and salvaged in order that the river might not engulf it.

Columbus, once a thriving community, was considered at one time as the national capital. It now has less than 700 inhabitants. During the civil war it was considered a strategic location and was an important center.

WEALTHY MIAMI RESIDENT NAMED IN 2 DROWNINGS

Miami, Fla., July 5.—(AP)—County authorities tonight were seeking Fred Osius, 48, wealthy inventor formerly of Racine, Wis., on two capias issued by the circuit court upon bills of information filed by County Solicitor Robert R. Taylor in connection with the drowning of two persons here last Monday.

The bills charge Osius with culpable negligence in operation of his automobile, which ran off the causeway between Miami and Miami Beach and overturned in the bay, causing the deaths of Mrs. Bertha Miller and her six-year-old son, Marvin.

A Miami Beach coroner's jury exonerated Osius in returning a verdict that the two deaths were caused by an unavoidable accident. Testimony at the hearing showed that the Osius machine, proceeding to Miami, was forced onto a street car track by a passing automobile and became uncontrollable, severing off the roadway into the water. Ben Miller, husband of the drowned woman, and an occupant of the car, absolved Osius from blame.

TRAINEES COMPLETE MARKSMAN COURSES

Rifle and pistol marksmanship courses for the elite's military training camp at Fort McPherson have been successfully completed. Each student in the rifle companies was taught how to hold the rifle properly.

The pistol course is more difficult. The pistol used by the United States is fairly heavy and requires strength and stamina to hold it at arm's length.

Colonel Balthus, camp commander, is well pleased with the results of the marksmanship courses.

Competitions in rifle and pistol shooting will be held in the near future to decide the best shots in the camp. For each shot, silver and bronze medals will be awarded.

Denver Sitter Establishes New Flag Pole Record

Denver, Colo., July 5.—Clinging on a flagpole six stories above Denver's mile-high altitude, Leroy "Spider" Haines, long distance pole perch, was holding a watch party for himself tonight in celebration of shattering the 300-hour pole sitting record established recently by Alvin "Shipwreck" Kelly, at Newark, N. J.

At midnight the "Spider" Kelly's mark, and from then on, says Haines, the record is going to be lowered plenty.

"We," announced the "Spider" adopting the Linderbergh mode of address toward one's vehicle, "have been having a right good time up here and we aim to stick together quite a while yet."

"If 'Shipwreck' has been hesitating about signing vaudeville and movie contracts, he'd better get his name on the dotted line quick," Haines warned. "Opportunity is about to pass him by. After midnight he'll be a back number."

Haines took off on his pole ascent a week ago last Friday, determined to break the world record by remaining aloft 13 days and maybe longer.

For exercise the "Spider" walks around the circular confines of his crow's nest. It is 12 feet in circumference. Some times he takes the walk on his hands, for the "Spider" is an acrobat as well as a steepleclimber.

HARRIS CONFERS ON WATERWAYS APPROPRIATIONS

Washington, July 5.—(Special.)—Senator Harris, who is a member of the commerce committee which has charge of rivers and harbors appropriation, before leaving for Georgia conferred with the army engineers relative to the work to be done by them on the Georgia rivers and harbors during the next year under the appropriation made by the last congress. This is the largest appropriation ever heretofore received for Georgia rivers and harbors.

Senator Harris was assured all the appropriation would be used for the work intended as follows: Savannah harbor, Ga., $700,000; Savannah river, Ga., $21,000; waterway between Beaufort, S. C., and Johns river, Fla., $50,000; Altamaha, Ga., $27,000; Brunswick harbor, Ga., $140,000; Satilla river, Ga., $18,000; Flint river, Ga., $45,000; Chattahoochee river, Ga., and Ala., $60,000.

Besides these appropriations Senator Harris was assured that the last river and harbor bill appropriating money to survey all the Georgia rivers to find potential water power, as well as navigation and flood control, and this work will be done independent of the appropriation by the last congress.

Winchester, Va., July 5.—(AP)—Governor Byrd was appealed to late today by S. B. Marsh, Shenandoah national forest supervisor, for emergency funds with which to hire additional men to fight a fire that had spread menacingly into immense virgin forests tracts of the Shenandoah National park area near Elkton, Va.

Governor Byrd immediately communicated with State Forester Chapin Jones to send all available fighters and wardens to the scene.

SPOTLIGHTING THE SOLONS

BY SAM W. SMALL

Barring the Evidence Obtained by Illegal Searches and Seizures, Et Cetera.

The solons returned to their mutinous Tuesday morning, some refreshed and some fatigued by the diversions of their Fourth of July vacation. They began industriously upon the grist that was ready for the mill. If they do not grow weary early and faint not at the Fahrenheit heights, they will be able to pass during the session probably nine hundred of the twelve hundred bills that are likely to be introduced.

The senate put through in quarter-stretch time the bill by Senator Myrick to bar from use in Georgia courts any evidence procured by arresting officers unlawfully—which means by searches and seizures not made under authority of lawful warrants.

The principle and purpose of the bill are right. No man's person, or property should be illegally searched or seized. And that is one bad feature of the Volstead and similar laws. They cannot be enforced without unlawful searches and seizures. And if such searches and seizures are barred the roads are all wide open to the rum-runners and bootleggers. It is a queer dilemma.

It is understood that Senator Jim

Reed, of Missouri, will be here to address the general assembly in joint session on the 12th inst. There is much curiosity to see and hear the man who is so increasingly popular as of the most available democrat for the presidential nomination next year. One of his Missouri constituents, Mrs. Nellie Burger, of the Woman's Christian Temperance union, is here to train her guns on the senator's record at the Wesley Memorial church tonight. She fought him in the last senatorial race he made in Missouri and he ran over all his enemies. Their powder, like the darkey's, has "done been shot off once."

Senator Willingham wants all existing laws regulating the operation of the department of agriculture repealed. The kind of trade he advocates to write on it the reform laws that he advocated during his senatorial campaign last year. "The people endorsed him by a big round majority and many of the solons think it is only fair to him and to the people who backed him to put his ideas into action. If he can save the state a quarter million dollars, let him go to it!"

Those salary and wage buying sharks, who prey upon those who are willing to pawn what they have not earned, should be put entirely out of business. The kind of trade they carry on is a curse to the community. The bills to curb their extortions, introduced by representative Still, should be passed in such fashion as to make it impossible for any professional loan shark to buy or collect any wage or salary by any law or device whatever. They are but a handful of cormorants and the persons who need protection from them are many, many thousands.

SINGLETON SCORES STATE SCHOOL WORK

More money must be spent by Georgia improving educational conditions. If the state is to avert a possible catastrophe, Gordon Singleton, of the state educational research department, told members of the Kiwanis club at the weekly luncheon in the Ansley hotel, Tuesday.

Mr. Singleton reviewed statistics compiled from schools throughout the state and showed the relationship between the Kiwanis program of aiding underprivileged children and the program of scholastic improvement needed to give the children of Georgia equal privileges with children of other states.

"Georgia's state revenue last year was $24,000,000," Mr. Singleton stated. "Of this $14,000,000 was allocated to specific purposes that would require a state amendment to change. For education, but $5,000,000 was spent. When the foundation of the state lies in the education of its future citizens, it seems hardly necessary to ask the question: Should the state pay more for anything than for education? Yet because of our present financial crisis in educational work 3,500,000 Georgia children received no schooling last year and of these 2,000,000 were not even enrolled in schools."

Mr. Singleton was introduced by Mercer Lee, chairman of the weekly program. President John L. Westmoreland presided.

Other topics discussed at the gathering were revival of the movement to change Atlanta's time from Central to Standard Eastern time, and petitioning of the county board of commissioners to pave a stretch of roadway adjoining the Home for the Friendless, on Highland avenue, by personal representation of the club at a board meeting at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon, in the county court house.

WITH NEW FUNDS U. S. COURT HOLDS GAINESVILLE TERM

Judge William J. Tilson, federal circuit judge for the northern district of Georgia; Assistant District Attorney J. N. Johnson and John L. Henley, Chief Deputy John Dean Stewart and Marshal Louis H. Crawford are in Gainesville, where the adjourned April term of federal court began Tuesday.

The April term was forced to adjourn when all available funds for running of the court became exhausted. With the fiscal year beginning July 1, funds became available and the adjourned term was continued.

It is understood that practically the entire time of the present court will be taken up with criminal matters, although several civil cases will be heard during the second week. The term is scheduled to last two weeks.

Several cases have been transferred from the Atlanta division to the Gainesville division for the purpose of entering pleas.

AGOGA CLASS LEADS ATTENDANCE MARKS

With 170 present, the Agoga class of the Baptist Tabernacle led class attendance at Sunday school last Sunday, according to figures released Tuesday morning.

The Agoga class of the West End Baptist church was second in class attendance with 128, while the Baptist Tabernacle led in school attendance with 1,158.

DISREGARD OF LAW SCORED BY JUDGE

Deplored what he termed the tendency of the people to disregard the laws, Judge Edgar E. Pomeroy, of Fulton superior court, in his charge to the July term Fulton county grand jury, declared that society is imperiled by the present reign of lawlessness and urged the new investigating body to do everything in its power toward law enforcement.

"It is the duty of the grand jury and courts," he said, "to try to instill in the people a willingness to obey the law, for the protection of society."

"Under present conditions society is imperiled. The time has come when the courts must concentrate on the situation and see that the law is enforced and the reign of lawlessness brought to a halt," Judge Pomeroy said.

James E. Hickey, Atlanta hotel man, was elected foreman of the jury.

HEALTH CONFERENCE HERE NEXT WEEK

The two-day health conference to be held in this city July 14-15, under the auspices of Emory university, is expected to attract more than 100 health officers and workers from Georgia and adjoining states.

Among prominent speakers who will address the conference are Dr. E. L. Bishop, Tennessee's commissioner of health; Dr. George K. Pratt, national committee chairman for mental hygiene; Washington; Dr. W. S. Rankin, director of the Duke foundation for rural hospitals; Raleigh; President H. W. Cox, Emory university; Dr. J. A. Hayne, South Carolina state health officer; Dr. F. E. Abernethy, Georgia state commissioner of health; Jessie W. Martiner, director of child hygiene, of the Alabama state board of health; Dr. J. B. Bowdoin, Dr. M. E. Vinchester and J. P. Faulkner, of the Georgia state board of health; Miss Etienne Baldwin, of the American Association of Visiting Teachers; Miss Emma Hardcastle, supervisor of the Georgia Children's Home society; and Mrs. Myra Clowdman, supervising nurse, child health demonstration, Athens, Ga.

The meetings on both days will be open to the public.

BATTLE FORESEEN IN SCHOOL BOARD OVER JUNIOR HIGHS

Foreboding of an architectural fight were heard Tuesday in a meeting of the Atlanta board of education, when consideration of architects for completion of the four junior high school units was taken up.

City Attorney James L. Mayson has held that architects who supervised work on the first units have no claims on the city for completing the proposed new units, and that G. Loyd Treacher, school architect, can use legally assigned to prosecute this work.

It developed, however, that certain members of the board feel that these previous work was satisfactory, the original architects should be employed. A resolution providing that where previous service was satisfactory the old architects be employed was passed.

An effort on the part of William C. Slate, head of a special committee from the board to select the best type of heading units for the structures contemplated from bond funds to give the committee power to act failed. Members of the committee are Dr. R. M. Eubanks, president of the board; Mr. Treacher, R. R. Ritchie, assistant superintendent of schools in charge of business affairs; W. D. Hoffman and William Hancock, member of the bond commission who was named to act in an advisory capacity.

ADMITS FORGERY, DRAWS STIFF TERM IN FULTON COURT

Pleading guilty to forging the name of Judge Alex W. Stephens, of the court of appeals, to a check of $10, J. C. Hankinson, 36, was sentenced Tuesday by Judge John D. Humphries in Fulton superior court to serve from three to seven years.

He also pleaded guilty to six indictments charging him with passing fictitious checks and was given a similar sentence in each case, the terms to run concurrently with the forgery sentence.

In passing sentence Judge Humphries declared that there was but one way to stop crime and that was by making the violators of the criminal laws serve terms in the penitentiary.

Commissioner Saves Money in Obtaining School Land Option

George W. Powell, commissioner from the ninth ward, broke a record in the Atlanta board of education Tuesday when he offered a resolution that purchase of a tract of land on which to locate the Edgewood Avenue school be made for $22,500 in stead of consuming the entire allocation made for that purpose in the tentative budget as set up by the administration department.

A fund of $35,000 had been agreed upon for this purpose, but Mr. Powell succeeded in getting an option on a 5.5-acre tract on North Mayson avenue for the $22,500.

His resolution was unanimously voted by the board.

The bidding was: South (dealer) one Spade, West pass, North one No Trump, East pass. What should South declare on the second round?

My answer slip reads:

No. 5. Two Hearts, No. 6. Pass, No. 7. Two Spades, No. 8. Pass.

My reasons in support of these declarations are:

No. 5. With a Major two-suiter, better results almost invariably follow playing the suit that fits the hand of the No Trumpers, than by playing No Trump. In this case, while the heart suit has but Queen-Ten at the head, the chances are that Hearts will work better than No Trump. South, if short in Hearts as well as in Spades, would confidently bid three No Trumps.

No. 6. With a semi-two-suiter (five cards in one suit and four in the other) the advisability of showing the four-card suit over the No Trump, is doubtful. If South had five Hearts, he should bid them; but with four, the take-out might not produce game when the pass, with such help for a No Trump in both Majors, would do so.

No. 7. With six strong Spades, assistance in Hearts, and worthless minors, a Spade rebid is sound. It shows six Spades and gives North, with that information, an option between two Spades and two No Trumps.

No. 8. The Spades are identical with No. 7, but the scattered strength in the other three suits must be most helpful for North's No Trump.

BETTER NEWSPAPER METHODS OUTLINED

"Southern newspapers have cast aside the loose business methods employed before the war and in their place have substituted sound, practical and efficient ones to such an extent that at the present time there is no business conducted on any better scale," said Dr. Victor H. Hansen, publisher of the Birmingham News and Birmingham Age Herald, in an address which featured the weekly meeting of the Atlanta Rotary club held at noon Tuesday at the Capital City club.

Opening his address with a short sketch of his early newspaper career, part of which was spent in this city, the speaker touched on the rivalry between certain cities and how this rivalry was due in a large measure to the newspapers in the respective towns. While on this topic the speaker spoke of the great friendship that existed between Atlanta and Birmingham and paid a most glowing tribute to the "Atlanta Spirit."

In speaking of the greatly improved business methods used on the up-to-date papers of the south Dr. Hansen mentioned the better cost system employed and how the "dishers" were better informed as to cost problems.

The cost of advertising, through the A. B. C. system, according to Dr. Hansen, has been put on a scientific basis. "In the old days," said the speaker, "an advertiser had to rely on the word of the publisher and the figures furnished by him. Now, however, the efficient A. B. C. system, the advertiser knows exactly what he is getting when he invests his money in advertising."

The speaker paid a tribute to the three Atlanta papers, but mentioned the fact that advertising rates were low in this city.

George Baker, of the Atlanta Light Opera company, added much to the

Four Wimbledon Tennis Titles

Helen Wills, Miss Ryan Win in Final Round

Four U. S. Players on Honor Roll at Wimbledon—Tourney Greatest Success of Any in History.

Wimbledon, July 5.—(AP)—The 1927 Wimbledon tournament closed today in a blaze of glory for the United States with four of the five championships in the hands of American players.

The lone crown that was missing—the coveted men's singles—was perched on the brow of little Henri Cochet, the French ace who eliminated William T. Tilden in the semi-finals on his way to his ultimate victory.

With the women's singles, won by Helen Wills and the men's doubles, won by Tilden and Francis T. Hunter, already captured, the American players went into the last day's play with the women's doubles and the mixed doubles championships as their goal.

A Bright Star.

Elizabeth Ryan, of California, was the bright American star in today's play. Paired with Miss Wills, she won the women's doubles with the South Africans, Miss "Bobbie" Heine and Mrs. J. Peacock, the American players went into the last day's play with the women's doubles and the mixed doubles championships as their goal.

Later, as the curtain was about to be rung down over Wimbledon of 1927, she appeared with Hunter against L. A. Godfree and Mrs. K. McKane Godfree, to win the mixed doubles title after a stubbornly fought battle in the first set. The display of fortitude and stamina given by the California girl in her three appearances, aroused the keenest admiration from the spectators.

The Wills-Ryan partnership, which won the American pair over Mrs. G. E. and the first on today's schedule. After the first set, no one doubted an American victory. After Wimbledon had been in daily shower the courts were rather slow and the American pair found difficulty in getting started, soon rallying 1-3.

Miss Wills then began showing tremendous drives at the feet of the South African players and Miss Ryan steadied her play after a shaky beginning. Five straight games for the Americans and the set at 6-5 was the result.

Brilliant Volleys.

Both pair used close-up formation in the second set and brilliant volleys at the net followed. Despite a gusty wind, both Americans were in full command, putting the ball away quickly and cleanly, the match soon coming to an end with a 6-2 victory in the second set.

In the very last game with victory but a step away "Little Pooker" Face, Miss Wills broke out into a real ringing laugh as Miss Ryan wanted an easy ball with the match point at stake. The laugh was one of the few times during the tournament that the American star broke her usual sphinx-like expression.

It was the ninth time that Miss Ryan has shared in winning the women's doubles at Wimbledon. She scored first in 1914 with Miss A. M. Morton, then won six times paired with Suzanne Lenglen and last year with Miss Mary K. Brown.

Mrs. Godfree and Miss Ryan gave a great display of pluck and stamina after their heavy schedule of play and Mr. Godfree himself was a very tired man. In the last set he netted ball after ball, causing one woman behind the press box to say laughingly, "Kitty" as a splendid excuse for a divorce suit, as he made what appeared to be a particularly bad error.

Honor Roll.

The 1927 Wimbledon, in spite of the absence of several of the brightest stars of the tennis court, forms one of the greatest years in the 51-year history of the All-England club. The honor roll at the close of the championship was:

Men's Singles—Henri Cochet.
Women's Singles—Miss Helen Wills.
Men's Doubles—William T. Tilden and Francis T. Hunter.
Women's Doubles—Miss Helen Wills and Elizabeth Ryan.
Mixed Doubles—Miss Elizabeth Ryan and Francis T. Hunter.

Doubles Finals Today in Net Tourney

The men's and women's doubles in the city tennis championship will be decided this afternoon on the courts of the Atlanta Tennis Club.

At 3:30 o'clock Bryan Grant and Malon Courts will meet the defending champions, Harry Gault and J. T. Hunter in the final of the men's doubles and shortly after the conclusion of this match Bryan Grant and William Leide will oppose Jack Boykin and Fred Hagen in the junior final. Both encounters will be the best three out of five sets.

The two finals today are the concluding chapters in the city championship. The singles finals in all events and the doubles final in boys' tournament were finished last week.

Much interest has been shown in the play in this tournament and with the final matches to be decided this afternoon the crowd will probably be the largest to turn out so far.

Ex-Champ Drops McMullen, Bangs Up Others—Begins To Show Real Fighting Form.

By JACK FARRELL.

White Sulphur Springs, N. Y., July 5.—Jack Dempsey, student boxer, reverted to his original style of fistfighting today and scored the first knockout of his present training campaign. He knocked Eddie McMullen, one of the most adept punch catchers in camp, out of the ring with a murderous left hook to the mouth and when Edward was picked up by sympathetic newspaper men he was dead to the world.

"Good all hemlocks!" ejaculated Jim Corbett, former world's heavy-weight champion, as he stood up to get a peek at McMullen as the latter lay prone on the ground. "I've seen low Dempsey's punch anything at all like the broken-down, decrepit gladiator I expected to see. That boy still has a lot of fighting left in him. He may have lost some of his speed, but he still retains his almighty wallop."

In Murderous Mood.

Dempsey was in a murderous frame of mind today for in addition to knocking McMullen out he also upset the fast-peddling Allentown Joe Gans with a short right hook after he had brushed aside the negro lad's left lead. This knockdown came so suddenly that most of the experts figured Joe had been caught off balance and pushed to the mat.

"No—that was no push," admitted Gans when he stepped through the ropes. "It was positively a left hook that rattled every tooth in my head. That must seem a pretty harder every time I go in there with him."

Every one of the seven sparring partners finished a second. Even the elusive Dave Shyne was on the receiving end of all of the way. When ever Dave bobbed, Dempsey bobbed right with him. Dave unleashed some beautiful, well-timed overhand shots to Dempsey's jaw, but Jack ducked under them and countered with short arm jabs to the body.

Carl Carter, the lanky coffee-colored Harlem heavyweight, went down the road this morning. Carl's clinching tactics didn't meet with the approval of Dempsey's manager, who said yesterday his seat at the training table was occupied by a light heavyweight from Syracuse, Jack Eblenhard. Jack Shyne is trying to teach his fighter a back-pedal. Hit and run fighters don't last long with Dempsey as a rule.

Seldom Misses.

Dempsey's timing and his short hitting were the outstanding features of today's drill. He moved in close before letting his punches go and seldom missed. He started out on his loss, but Flynn soon had him shifting on the ball of his right foot with the left flat. That is the new balance system Shyne is trying to teach his fighter. Jack is trying his level best to become letter-perfect in that particular.

SHARKY BEGINS TRAINING FRIDAY.

Boston, July 5.—(P)—Jack Sharkey will begin his training on Friday for his fight with Jack Dempsey. In the 16 days left before the New England Sharky meets the champion, the gymnasium at the new Madison Square Garden will be the scene of Sharkey's activity. After a light workout here today, he decided to drive over to New York with his wife Thursday and start punching Friday.

41 Babies Saved When Incubator House Burns

Atlantic City, N. J., July 5.—(United News.)—Forty-one babies, on display in an incubator building, were carried to safety and 800 guests of surrounding hotels fled to the streets with their belongings today when fire swept through a half block of boardwalk structures.

Eight amusement places, including the incubator building, and four small hotels were destroyed, flames eating their way 400 feet back from the water front before they could be brought under control.

One fireman was injured when he fell from a flight of stairs in escaping from a hotel where he had been searching for a lost child, before he left the building it collapsed.

Physicians and nurses in attendance upon the incubator babies which form a part of "Curiosity row" along the boardwalk, carried the infants to the Shelbourne hotel, where guests of the hotel aided in transferring the infants to safety.

The little girl for whom the fireman was searching when injured was later found in a nearby hotel and restored to her hysterical mother. She had not been hurt.

Crossed electric wires in an amusement emporium were believed to have started the fire. The entire fire department was called out. Firemen checked the flames along the boardwalk but meantime they began eating toward the hotel, spreading 400 feet before they were extinguished.

Hotels destroyed included the Larchmont, Armstrong, Prescott and Leonard.

SENATOR REED TO SPEAK HERE

Under terms of a joint resolution adopted in both branches of the legislature Tuesday, United States Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri, one of the foremost democrats of the country and one of the ablest speakers in America, will be invited to deliver an address at a joint session of the legislature at a date and hour selected by Senator Reed. This date probably will be July 12 at noon, it was announced Tuesday by former Governor Thomas W. Hardwick, close personal friend of the senator, who will have charge of the arrangements for his reception.

According to a message received from Governor Hardwick, who is confined to his home at Sandersville with an injured shoulder, Senator Reed will be given a reception at the Capitol City club to which will be invited prominent democrats from all parts of the state. Several notables from other states will be invited.

Senator Reed has informed friends in the house and senate that he expects to be in Atlanta July 12 and will be glad to speak at a joint session at any hour the legislature may fix. According to tentative plans, this will be at noon, July 12.

In recent years Senator Reed has forged ahead among the democrats in the senate and has reached a position where he is considered by many one of the possible candidates for the presidency on the democratic ticket. He is known as a courageous and open fighter in behalf of any cause he supports and is recognized as one of the leading debaters of the senate.

Governor Hardwick made public the following telegram he had forwarded to Senator Reed at St. Louis, Mo.:

"July 4, 1927.

"Senator James A. Reed, Jefferson hotel, St. Louis, Mo.

"My dear senator: Your secretary telephoned me yesterday from Kansas City to the effect that you would be glad to address the general assembly of Georgia on Tuesday, July 12, and would reach Atlanta from Houston, Texas, on Monday night, July 11, at 11:40 o'clock over the Louisville & Nashville railroad. I think this engagement is at about the right time and I will see that all arrangements are made with the legislature about the speaking engagement. I know you yet at what hour the joint session will convene but will attend to that and advise you. I will be in Atlanta on July 11 and will meet you at the train and make all arrangements for you.

TEACHERS' SALARY INCREASES DENIED

adopted the budget providing that the salary schedule was to be suspended, no definite action on the part of the board looking toward this had been initiated. The board authorized R. R. Ritchie, its superintendent of schools in charge of business affairs, to begin an extensive consolidation program of classes which would eliminate the positions of 158 teachers. Action of the board Tuesday provides for the consolidation only in cases where resignations, which are not to be filled, fail to bring the salary account within the budget.

The "B" budget, which exceeds the $1,000,000 mark by about $500,000, was approved by the board and forwarded to the board of finance for approval. It was said that the board commission has agreed to accept the excess amount and slash the over-draft from the "C" or third $1,400,000 budget when it is offered.

Additions to the "B" budget made Tuesday, in addition to a large excess which existed before, provided for more land for the board of finance school amounting to $8,000; $5,000 additional for Luckie Street school; $20,000 for Peoples Street school; $33,000 for Morrisville; $10,000 for Oakland City school. This pushes the total contemplated expenditure for the projects to the following figures: Georgia avenue, $43,000; Luckie Street, $20,000; Peoples Street, $33,000; Morrisville, $65,000; Oakland City, $10,000.

After the bond commission approves the "B" budget, it will be referred to city council and Mayor I. N. Haysdale for approval.

COOLIDGE ATTENDS WESTERN ROUNDUP

ENTRY OF PRESIDENT IS RODEO WINNER

Belle Fourche, S. D., July 5.—(United News.)—President Coolidge's entry, "Dakota" Clyde Jones, keeper of the horses at the summer white house, won the wild horse racing contest here today.

Jones saddled an unbroken horse, and made one circuit of the track. Seven horses in the race broke through the fences. Two riders were thrown and half a dozen riders were eliminated because their horses could not be saddled. Only four competitors finished.

Belle Fourche, S. D., July 5.—(AP)—From the center of a mammoth crowd of westerners, President Coolidge, wearing a "Ten-Gallon" hat, today watched the tri-state round-up, a spectacle of skill and daring on horse and foot.

Seated with Mrs. Coolidge, Senator Norbeck of South Dakota, Mr. Norbeck and other members of his party sat in a box directly in front of the main grandstand, Mr. Coolidge's first genuine taste of what was the only life and pleasure a decade ago in the country he chose for his summer residence.

One of the events which seemed to please both the president and Mrs. Coolidge most was the Omaha Indians dance in which a hundred Redskins paraded dressed in their native war paint, bangles and feathers.

Tom-Tom Beats.

The Indians rushed into the runway before the president's box yelling and shouting, waving their hands, shaking their bodies. As a tom-tom beat out the steady rhythm, they moved into their primitive dances, the Indian bucks first kicking high then bending low, and other stunts.

The crowd was in a holiday mood and laughed whenever a cowboy or horse galloped in front of Mr. Coolidge and called "Hello, Cal!" The president smiled back and also was amused when the round-up announcer specified one of the bucking broncos as "Cal Coolidge."

When Dakota Clyde Jones, in charge of the Custer State Park rangers and the president's favorite entry, dashed out on the chute astride a wildly bucking broncho, he stuck to its back, both Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge applauded loudly.

Throughout the day a panorama "wild west" thrills passed before them.

Cowgirls in Chaps.

Cowgirls in sheepskin chaps, others in bright-colored shirts and trousers rode by, putting their ponies through all manner of tricks. They saw sturdy ranchers grab steers by the horns and turn back the heads until they toppled to the ground.

With the excitement of a derby they and the crowd cheered as a "cow-horse" relay was in progress in which new horses had to be resaddled before each lap.

Tad Lucas, of Fort Worth, Texas, champion cowgirl, drew a round of applause when she dashed by on Alkali Gray and the crowd cheered when Fox Hastings, only woman bulldozer, subbed a big steel bull after several minutes of strenuous "bull-dogging."

During the afternoon two full-blooded Indian chiefs, Spotted Cow and Red Cloud, were presented to the spectators and the announcer recalled that they had met President Coolidge before in Washington.

Child Draws Smile.

Ten-year-old Virginia Ramey, of Belle Fourche, drew a smile from President Coolidge when she won the cowgirl's cow-horse race and a roar went up from the stands when a small rider went by seriously smoking a cigar.

The day had one accident, a bronco kicking Walter Heacock after he had been thrown. Heacock was able to walk from the arena after a rest.

In addition to these various western feats, the president watched as eagerly as any spectator the Indian buck and square races, bucking contests, and calf roping and the other stunts he had ridden a hundred miles from the summer white house to see.

He came to Belle Fourche on a special train and was greeted at the depot by a throng which hung from the depot roof and nearby box cars. Leading the parade to the rodeo grounds in an open car, President Mrs. Coolidge smiled and waved to the crowds which packed the round-up stands.

The last event on the program was a race of wild horses, never before ridden or halter-broken. Then as the sun was setting the round-up came to an end and the president and his party returned to their train for the homeward trip to Rapid City.

First Glimpse of President.

Most of the thousands who packed the Belle Fourche round-up stands today received their first glimpse of a president of the United States.

Fred Pannell, Wyoming rancher, was more intent than the rest to get a good look at President Coolidge and he worked his way to the presidential box to get it.

"Where's the president? I have never seen one and I want to see him."

Someone attracted Mr. Coolidge's attention and the president raised his hat and bowed. Pannell said "Hello," and went away happy.

pension to cover the funeral expenses when a pensioner dies before the payment is collected. Heretofore such funds have been turned back into the treasury.

Abolish Oil Inspectors.

Abolition of the offices of oil inspectors in the state is provided in a bill introduced in the senate by Senator Williamson, of Cobb. He announced that the bill is designed to "clear the track" for whatever reform the legislature may see fit to adopt in the oil inspection department.

The Fulton delegation introduced a bill which will give Fulton county commission authority to fix the salary of the clerk of that body. Heretofore this salary has been fixed by the legislature.

A joint resolution inviting United States Senator James A. Reed to deliver an address before the Georgia legislature was adopted in the two houses Tuesday.

The ways and means committee Tuesday afternoon voted to recommend for passage a bill introduced by Representative Wright, of Floyd, providing for a tax on mortgages, deeds and other instruments. This is a recording tax of fifty cents on each $500 face value of the instrument.

The constitutional amendments committee of the house agreed Tuesday night to hold an open hearing Thursday afternoon for discussion of a bill introduced by Representative Stanford, of Lowndes, providing for a return to annual session of the legislature of 40 days each.

PRISONERS, GUARD SHOT IN MARYLAND

Baltimore, July 5.—(AP)—Shot down today when only the big door in front of them blocked freedom, two Maryland penitentiary convicts tonight suffered from bullet wounds in the legs while a guard they shot in their break for the "outside" fought against death.

Armed with pistols, Charles P. (Country) Carey, a "fifer," and Benjamin P. Spragins, of Richmond, Va., made an unsuccessful attempt to duplicate the escape of Richard Reese Whittemore on August 20, 1925.

Whittemore beat fatally a guard and fled but was returned and hanged on August 30, last.

The gun battle between the prisoners and a guard was staged in the lobby of the administration building.

Alfred Walker, the guard, distributed to the prisoners packages sent to them. Carey and Spragins appeared for their packages. When they were admitted to the spacious room facing the street, Spragins opened fire. Walker fell and Carey seized his keys and pistol.

The convicts fired promiscuously, sending several visitors seated on chairs beside the wall to cower beneath furniture. Miss Mary E. Sullivan, 24, operating a telephone switchboard in the center of the room, ran to an adjoining room and shouted the alarm to passersby outside.

Meanwhile Guard Charles E. Stortz, who was eating lunch behind a partition and not seen by the convicts, opened fire dropping Carey and Spragins after an exchange of shots.

ATLANTA PRISON INMATE FACING MURDER HEARING

Nashville, Tenn., July 5.—(AP)—With the beginning today of the murder trial of Kyle Davenport, who is charged with shooting to death Will Latta, chauffeur for federal prohibition agents, the state indicated that it would attempt to break up Davenport's self-defense plea by "showing" that Latta's pistol had been fired for a week prior to the killing which occurred March 31.

Davenport was brought here last

POSTAL RECEIPTS SET NEW RECORD

With a total of $4,455,568 for the fiscal year ending June 30 all records for postal receipts at the Atlanta post-office were broken. This figure is $453,287 above that for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1926, and is the first time in the history of the local office that receipts have gone over the four million-mark for the 12 months.

While the receipts for June, the last month of the fiscal year, were not quite as heavy as in May, they show a gain of $33,006 over those of June, 1926. Receipts for June, 1926, were $306,911. Those for June, 1927, $340,517. Those for May, 1927, were $354,524.

A comparison of the receipts for the fiscal year just ended and those of the year ending June 30, 1926, shows that no quarter of the past fiscal year saw the receipts below the million mark, while but one quarter of the preceding year found them over that mark. The receipts for the preceding year were $3,902,331.

Atlanta has led the nation twice during the past several months in percentage gain and has been among the top three offices several times.

According to Postmaster E. K. Large, the record for the past year shows a steady increase and is not due to a sudden lull.

FRANK M. SCOTT PASSES AT BROOKS

Seneca, Ga., July 5.—(Special.)—Frank M. Scott, one of the most prominent farmers of Spalding county, died at his home near Brooks at an early hour Monday morning and the remains were laid to rest in the family burying ground near that place Tuesday evening at 4 o'clock.

Mr. Scott is survived by two sons, Harvey Scott, of near Brooks; Isaac A. Scott, of Panama City, Fla., and two daughters, Mrs. C. H. Kempton and Mrs. J. A. Kempton, of Seneca.

BYRD AWARDED LEGION OF HONOR

Paris, July 5.—(AP)—The American aviators who flew across the Atlantic in the Columbia and America had another busy day of receptions from breakfast until dinner in the evening, and then they were allowed the night hours to do with as they pleased. Some of them decided to get a well-earned rest, while the others dined privately with friends or joined the tourist trek to Montmartre.

Commander Byrd again was the center of interest in all the public appearances the aviator made. With his gracious ways and words he has captivated the hearts of the French, as well as their admiration—just as Lindbergh did before him.

The cross of the Legion of Honor will be conferred upon Commander Byrd, the government having decided today to honor him in this manner. The same decoration also may be conferred upon Acosta, Noville and Balchen, the commander's three companions on the trans-Atlantic flight, but this is not yet definitely determined.

The commander also was presented with the gold medal of the French Aero club, the government having decided to award it to him. This medal was awarded to Colonel Lindbergh when he was received at the club after his New York-to-Paris flight.

ATLANTA WOMAN KILLED IN AUTO CRASH IN OHIO

Mrs. Peter B. Bogart, 64, of 54 The Prado, wife of the president of the American Warming and Ventilating company, was killed instantly Tuesday, Ohio, Tuesday when the automobile her husband was driving went out of control and crashed into a ditch.

Mr. and Mrs. Bogart left Atlanta last Tuesday for a short visit with her relatives at Toledo, Ohio. They were returning to Atlanta in company with Mrs. Luella O'Dell, a sister of Mrs. Bogart's, when the accident occurred, according to friends of the family here.

Mrs. Bogart was an active member of the First Presbyterian church here. The Bogart family moved to Atlanta about seven years ago from Milwaukee, Wis.

DISASTROUS FIRE AT ATLANTIC CITY

Atlantic City, N. J., July 5.—(AP)—Nearly a block of the boardwalk between Missouri and Arkansas avenues was razed in one of the most disastrous fires in years here today. Three firemen were overcome and more than 500 persons were made homeless.

Discovered shortly after 3 o'clock in the boardwalk restaurant the flames rapidly spread, aided by a stiff breeze. A general alarm was sounded. Firemen battled the blaze three hours.

Eight hotels and rooming houses sent vacationists scurrying to the street. Most of them were on the beach at the time and their belongings were either burned or ruined by water and smoke.

Hotels destroyed or damaged included the Prescott, Regent, hotel, Leonard, Lutz, Boardwalk, Bella Napoli and the Silverdale. Between eight and ten houses or cottages were destroyed or gutted.

The million-dollar pier opposite the Boardwalk hotel was in imminent danger for a time.

Just before the Remington Arms exhibit went down in flames a loud rat-tat-tat started up and continued, but no one was hurt by the bursting shells. The beach was jammed with bathers and spectators who watched the spectacle.

SYNOPSIS.
A band of crooks stumbles on the fact that the wife of Sir Adrian Shale, who supposedly had died six months before in Italy, is still alive. It is Mimi Winslow, who makes the discovery in a small, out of the way village in Italy. Mimi poses as a widow, but she is really the wife of Charles Hobson, leader of the crooks.

INSTALLMENT IX.

On and on sped the high-powered two seater. A long run they had ahead of them, but Bill was a brilliant driver and it was almost a record, a hundred and fifty miles to London without one stop. About midnight they fetched up at the little house in Westminster where Charles was waiting for them with a tasty supper which he had prepared himself. Doris had gone to bed.

"And just as well," gasped Mimi. "O, I'm half dead, Charles, and starving."

Bill, hollow eyed and covered with dust, asked her for the key of her bag. She tossed it to him and reached for the glass of beer her admiring husband had poured for her. Charles, waiting upon her assiduously, was sharply interrupted by a snarl of rage from Beauty Bill.

"We've been swindled!" cried Bill. "Look here—it's nothing but paper—tissue paper."

Mimi choked and set down her glass. "What do you mean? That's not true. I'm not so green as to have—"

"Well, then, look!"

Bill held up the fat contents of the manilla holder to prove his assertion.

"Doris—swindled!" groaned Charles. "Wait—here's a letter mixed in with it. O, that's done it—Mrs. Charles Hobson. Mimi, he knows who we are!"

"Hobson was the name under which Uncle Charles had been born and subsequently married."

"Give it to me," she cried, snatching the envelope.

She was red and furious, and her appetite for the good supper had entirely fled.

One felt sorry for all for Uncle Charles. He looked heartbroken, utterly wretched.

"Well, why don't you open it?" demanded Bill.

Mimi tore at the envelope with her little pointed fingers which somehow suggested the talons of a bird of prey.

The angry red deepened in her face as she glanced through the contents, her strong white teeth snapped, but most expressive of all was her heavy, labored breathing—she was not merely angry, she was desperately frightened as well.

The tables had turned with a vengeance. Sir Adrian Shale was not in her power; she was in his. O, the mean, deceitful, lying wretch that he was! Could such duplicity be imagined? Crooked, that's what he was. How had a man like Shale managed to keep out of prison?

Poor Charles, huddled there in his shabby arm chair, reddened eyelids blinking, moistening his dry lips with the tip of a tongue that was not, itself, any too moist.

Mimi threw the letter at him, and burst out crying with her head on the table in perilous proximity to the sausage and potato salad.

"To think I should live to be so insulted!" she sobbed. "But I might have known—O, I might have known! All this week he's been working this up, and I went away so trustfully leaving him a free hand. Never, never again will I trust any man."

Charles and Bill bent over the evil thing together. Yet, it was a pretty strong dose for poor old Mimi. One could scarcely blame her for taking on so; but somehow, somewhere, she must have blundered, and it was not like Mimi to blunder.

"Madam," began the letter, "here is a little dossier which may interest you."

"Marie Hobson, alias Mimi Le Vigne, alias Maud Montague, alias Charles Vane, alias Faith Maltavers, convicted at Bow street of shoplifting, January 12, 19—, and sentenced to five weeks in the second division. Convicted at the Old Bailey, for attempted blackmail, October 21, 19—, and sentenced to six months hard labor. Both sentences were carried out at Holloway prison. Tried together with husband, Charles Hobson, for complicity in Baron Hill real estate frauds, June 9, 19—, but acquitted. Husband found guilty and sentenced accordingly. Tried together with husband for complicity in the Marlowe turf fraud, April 28, 19—, but acquitted. Husband found guilty."

"There is more of this, madam," the letter went on. "Considerably more, but undoubtedly you will agree this is enough, and take warning by it. 'Vanity impelled me to see if I had anything like your stupendous audacity; and it is vanity which also impels me to tell you how I did it. How, for instance, did the lift boy know when to knock at the door?'

"Well, he knew, because with the assistance of our good friends, Carmichael and the hotel electrician, I rigged up a dictograph, the transmitter of which was in a bowl of flowers on the table across which you and I conducted our interesting conversation; the receiver being clamped to the head of my secretary in a room across the hall. If you would like a stenographic report of that conversation, I will be glad to furnish you with a copy."

"I offered to pay your hotel bill as some slight return for the month I enjoyed of your charming society, and that of your equally charming daughter. I hope you found Grantwick hospitably inclined, and should you ever again think of settling here or of coming to pay us a visit, I shall be only too pleased to do what I can to make you happy."

"My kindest regards to yourself, to Miss Doris and to your sailor brother."

"Very truly yours,"

"ADRIAN SHALE."

"Doesn't send any regards to me," Bill muttered. "Well, we'll wait and see. I got the hang of those window catches all right. We'll wait and see."

Charles shook a doleful head. "I shouldn't. Not if I was you, Bill. He's got Mimi hard and fast; if he wants to land on her, you keep away from Grantwick, and thank your lucky stars he let us off easy. That fellow Shale is a hard nut to stand for any more nonsense from us, you may be sure."

"He's nothing but a low black-mailer," said Mimi, raising her weary head and disclosing a countenance sadly blotched with tears. "And I trusted him."

"Women got no business to trust any man live but their own husbands," Charles said, fixing her a bitterly suspicious glance. "I shouldn't wonder if you trusted him a little too far. Paying your hotel bill and all; letting you off like that. I shouldn't wonder there was something behind it."

"Rats!" said Bill. "It was because of Doris, you jealous old donkey."

The door opened.

"Because of me—what?"

And there was Doris, herself, slim and lovely and pale in a dressing gown, with her hair in braids.

As no one answered immediately, she said, "I thought I heard somebody crying."

Bill jerked his head at Mimi. "Her—and she's got something to cry for, too. Shale caught her, done her in good and proper. Played a real old-fashioned confidence game on her—the sort of trick I wouldn't try on a 10-year-old rustic out of a feeble minded home. Brought it off in style, too. I don't wonder she's sore on herself."

"She trusted him," Uncle Charles murmured bitterly. "Said so, herself—trusted him!"

"Then—then Sir Adrian wouldn't allow himself to be—Doris's young breast heaved spasmodically. "No, he wouldn't," Bill spat out. "Did you tell Mimi so?" asked Uncle Charles.

"I begged her not to try. It seemed so—so mean, somehow, when he was doing all he could to be kind to us."

Bill sighed with deep resignation. "Doris is beyond help," he groaned. (Copyright, 1927, for The Constitution.)

New York, July 5.—(A.P.)—Resumption of trading after the double holiday in the stock market found speculators for the advance still in control of the price movement.

Intermittent profit-taking and bear selling was more than offset by the steady investment demand for high grade issues and aggressive pool operations in a number of specialties, based on the prospect of easier money shown in clearinghouse reserve, but call funds were in plentiful supply at the renewal rate of 4-1/2 per cent with a 100-day advance notice "secondary market" as low as 4-1/4 per cent. In many quarters a 4 per cent call money rate is looked for before the end of the year. Future money and commercial paper markets were unchanged.

Banks called about $25,000,000 in loans during the day, presumably to finance the fifth acquisition deficit.

Electric Equipments.

Electric equipment stocks gave one of the best demonstrations of group strength in the buyback market, buoyed by rumors of railroad and other electrification projects. General Electric, Westinghouse, Manufacturing and Transportation Electrical Supply reached new high ground, while Allis Chalmers and General Railway Signal recorded substantial gains. Baldwin, clearing rates sluggish in the early trading, ran up over 3 points to 234-1/4, or within a point of the record with interest the outcome of the hearings on the approval of securities under the new Paul reorganization plan, which started before the Federal Commerce Commission in Washington tomorrow, and the action to be taken by the Federal Reserve Board in response to an application for the merger of the Great Northern and Northern Pacific roads, which is expected to reach the commission Friday.

All of the principal commodity markets lost ground, some of the active wheat options losing nearly 25 cents a bushel. Cotton sagged 7 to 15 points and coffee closed 2 to 6 cents lower. Raw sugar was unchanged.

With the exception of a drop of about 7 points in Spanish pesetas and a small advance in Japanese yen, foreign exchange fluctuated in the market. Demand narrow and irregular limits. Denmark sterling ruled around 3.91 1/2-1/4 and French francs around 3.91 1/2-1/4 cents.

Why Does a Retail Business DIE?

Do you sell to Retailers? Then your customers are included in the following table. It represents a study of several thousands of cases, made by the Bureau of Business Standards of the Shaw Publications.

- Failure to take a legitimate profit
- Increasing cost of doing business
- Ignorance of overhead expense
- Bad accounting and poor collections
- Overbuying
- Cut-rate competition
- Lack of capital
- Poor location
- Undue eagerness to make a big splurge
- Failure to take a "census" of the local market

- Poor stocks
- Failure to create a store personality
- Poor equipment and fixtures
- Unsupported advertising

Whether your customers fail from this cause or that cause, your resources are endangered just the same. But no matter what may happen to any of your customers, nor how unexpectedly, you are protected thoroughly if you carry an adequate policy of American Credit Insurance. Thousands
